

WORKSHOP

“Emotions, Retaliation and the ‘Culture of Honor’: An Evolutionary and Neuroscience Approach.”

Gruter Institute and Berkman Center Roundtable Series
Harvard Law School
Cambridge, MA
March 3, 2005

Gruter Institute and Berkman Center Roundtable Series 2004 - 2005
From Personal to Impersonal Trusted Exchange in Physical and Digital Domains:
An Evolutionary Perspective

Trust is a cornerstone for all forms of human exchange. Recent research from several disciplines – evolutionary psychology, neuroscience, anthropology, evolutionary game theory and behavioral economics – has given fresh insight into the role of trust in social and economic exchange. This series will launch ed discussion about the implications of this research on the design of digital social exchange platforms such as eBay and building peer governance platforms.